

Core units: Key understandings Years 5–6

Illustration 2: Globes, maps, atlases, electronic maps

Photographs of globe-based activities

The photographs below illustrate some of the activities you can undertake with students to learn about the features of the globe and build on their experience of the world they live in. More details of how to undertake these specific activities are contained in Illustration 1: Globes, maps, atlases, electronic maps.

Using a ribbon on the globe to show the location of the prime meridian

Source: John Butler

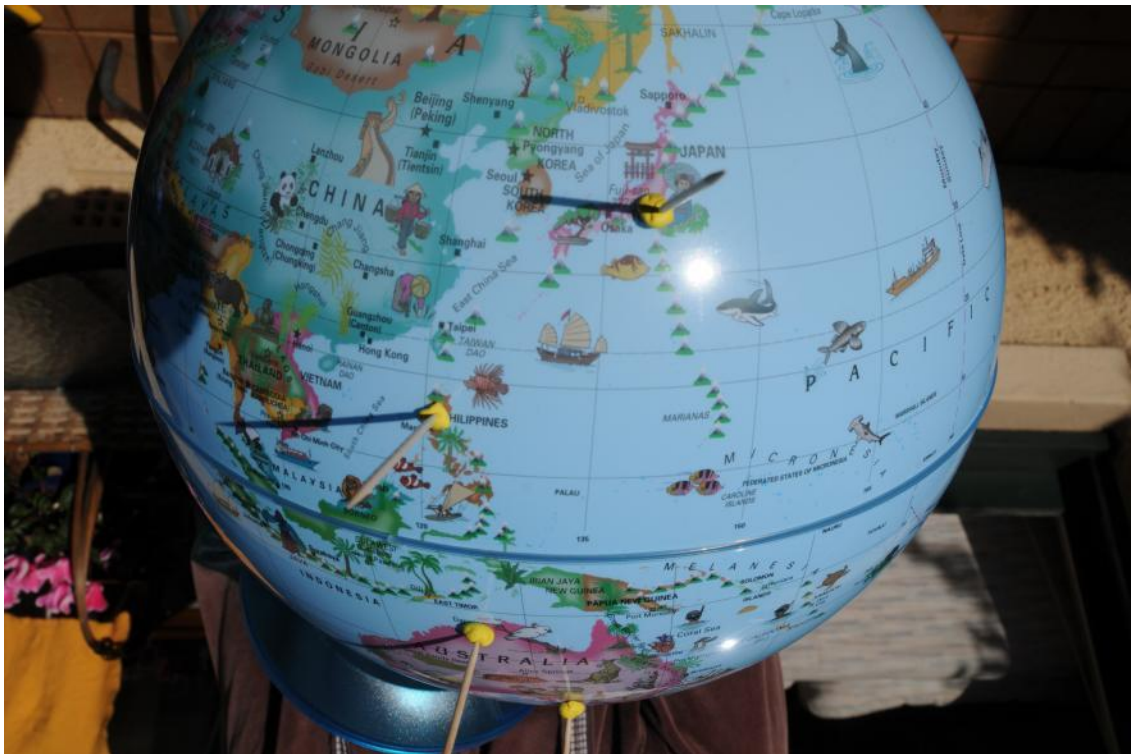

Using a ribbon on the globe to show the location of the International Date Line

Source: John Butler

Using a toothpick to show the location of your town or city in relation to day or night

Source: John Butler

Using toothpicks to show the length of shadows on different parts of the globe

Source: John Butler

Using toothpicks to show day and night on different sides of the globe

Source: John Butler

Using the globe outside to show where different places are in relation to the sun

Source: John Butler